Why Recycling Correctly Is So Important

Waste and recyclables are produced by each of us daily and often times we don't think much about what happens to paper, cardboard, plastic and metal and other acceptable items when we finish with them. Waste and recyclables travel different courses but each require tremendous effort and energy to ensure they are managed in an environmentally sound fashion.

By recycling correctly, you are supporting hundreds of jobs in our area. Markets or "mills" which will receive the materials placed in your cart once it's processed, have increased their acceptance standards and that's why what you place in your cart is very important. When done correctly, it will have a tremendous impact on our local economy.

The time is now to re-think what we recycle and place only the best items in your cart. No longer can we wishfully recycle by placing material in our carts hoping it gets recycled. There are many local resources available to donate, reuse or dispose of items no longer needed. Check with your community to find resources designed to help you manage your recycling and disposal needs. Thank you for supporting changes to the recycling menu and helping to support the local economy.
